Stadium Electronics announces the appointment of a new Commercial Director responsible for the commercial strategy of the global Electronic Manufacturing Services (EMS) business and driving growth in key markets.

Tony Inskip joined Stadium following the acquisition of EMS provider Zirkon Limited in October 2008 and was appointed Sales Director for Stadium's UK electronics business in May 2009.

He brings over 16 years experience in the sector and a broad business knowledge gained from working in varied sales and marketing roles at several blue chip companies, including Furon, Leyland DAF, Clayton Dewandre (Wabco) as well as several automotive manufacturers.

Nigel Rogers, Chief Executive said: "Following the acquisition of the second UK Electronics operation and the consolidation of our sales and marketing operation under a single management structure, we have went on to secure two significant new contracts for the business in the electronic transport signage and metering sectors and have also invested in further production facilities at our UK plants."

He continued: "We are confident that Tony's skills, experience and network of industry contacts will provide a platform for further organic growth in 2010 and beyond, and we wish him every success in his role."
